CIO CALLS STEEL STRIKE FOR JAN. 14

SAYS WARNING WAS MODIFIED BY ROOSEVELT

Marshall Tells Probers President Wanted To Let Japs Hit First Blow.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—Gen. George C. Marshall said today President Roosevelt personally ordered included in prewar warning messages to American commanders instructions to wait for an overt act by Japan.

Marshall told the senate-house Pearl Harbor inquiry committee the President's directions were being followed when Lt. Gen. Walter G. Short was told "The United States desires that Japan commit the first overt act." Short was the Army commander in Hawaii at the time of Pearl Harbor.

The former Army chief of staff said he had a "dim recollection" that Mr. Roosevelt personally gave him those instructions. He said he was worried about how to transmit them without too rigidly restraining defense actions

Digs Into Past

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) opened the fifth day of testimony for the five-star general with questions about an alert Marshall had ordered in Hawaii on June 17, 1940.

At that time the Hawaii garrison was ordered on a full alert, with the request that Lt. Gen. C. B. Herron, then commander there, acknowledge to Washington that the order had been carried out.

Ferguson noted that Marshall's Nov. 27, 1941 message to Short, who succeeded Herron, told Short to take measures he deemed necessary and report what those measures were.

"Isn't it the procedure that if a commander is told to take measures he deems necessary and report back and you are not satisfied with the measures he has taken, that you would advise him differently?" the Michigan senator asked

"I would assume so," Marshall replied quietly.

"That's the correct Army procedure?"

"Yes, sir, that's right," the general said.

Short's Position

Short has contended that when he reported he had placed into effect only an anti-sabotage alert and Washington gave him no further instructions, he felt the measures he had taken were satisfactory.

Ferguson and another Republican committee member, Rep. Keefe (Wis) both have evinced interest in why the 1940 orders for a Hawaii alert were, they said, more specific than the Nov. 27, 1941 "war warning" that went from Washington to Honolulu.

With Marshall up for a fifth day of testimony before the congressional Pearl Harbor investigation, Ferguson told reporters he planned to question the former chief of staff about the 1940 message sent Lt. Gen Herron.

Committee records show that on June 17, 1940, the adjutant general, acting for Marshall, sent this message to Herron:

"Immediately alert complete defensive organization to deal with possible trans-Pacific raid, to greatest extent possible without creating public hysteria or provoking undue curiosity of newspapers or alien agents. Suggest maneuver basis. Maintain alert until further orders. Instructions for secret communication direct with chief of staff will be furnished you shortly. Acknowledge."

Marshall testified last week the alert was the real thing, not a practice

Saw Little Hope

The Nov. 27, 1941, message to Lt. Gen. Short, the Hawaii commander told him "Negotiations with Japan appear to be terminated to all practical purposes with only the barest possibilities that the Japanese government will come back and offer to continue."

The message said "hostile action possible at any moment," adding that Short was "directed to undertake such reconnaissance and other measures as you deem necessary but these measures should be carried out so as not to alarm civil population or disclose intent."

Short ordered into effect an alert against sabotage, not the alert such as called for in the 1940 message to Herron.

HIT U. S. INTERFERENCE

NAVY MAY NOT USE JAP M'VAY WITNESS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—The judge advocate in the courtmartial of Capt. Charles McVay III, said today he was not certain whether he would call a Japanese submarine commander to testify on the sinking of the USS Indianapolis.

Ike Hashimoto, commander of the Jap submarine I-58, reported to have sunk the heavy cruiser last July 30 with a heavy loss of life, was flown to Washington from Japan at the request of Capt. Thomas J. Ryan Jr., the judge advocate.

Captain Ryan said he had spent four hours questioning Hashimoto, through interpreters. He said he had had no chance to determine to his own satisfaction whether Hashimto was competent and creditable as a witness.

Hashimoto is being held at the Washington Navy yard. Captain Ryan said he was not a prisoner of war "but for all practical purposes is the same as one."

Nazi "Human" Gas Tests Told

Senators Hear Germans Developed World's Deadliest Poison.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—Senators heard from a military government official today that Germany "developed the deadliest poison gas in the world" by testing it on concentration camp inmates.

Col. Bernard Bernstein, director of the division of cartels and external assets, U .S. military government in Germany, submitted this statement to a senate military subcommittee.

Bernstein also offered what he said was a German denial of a Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey contention that the United States benefitted through Standard's prewar relations with the big German dye trust, I. G. Farbenindustrie.

On the poison gas matter, he said many plants and all stocks of poison gas were destroyed by the German government before occupation of the Russians. Bernstein continued:

"But our investigation has disclosed that an I. G. Farben official at Wuppertal-Elberfeld developed the dealiest poison gas in the world. This gas, unknown to the military authorities of the Allied Nations, could have penetrated any gas mask in existence.

"I.G. originally carried out its poison gas experiments on monkeys; later on human beings."

The senate hearing is directed at the question of cartels, of which Bernstein said:

"I.G.'s cartel agreement included agreements with such major industrial concerns as Standard Oil (New Jersey).

"Mr. R. T. Haslam of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey stated the 'secrets brought to America from Germany 15 years ago by American scientists have been turned into mighty weapons against Germany'."

County Completes Perfect Record in War Bond Sales

Rounding out a perfect record in all eight war bond campaigns the Marion county War Finance Committee today reported the county's E bond quota in the Victory Loan had been exceeded. The county now has gone over the top in all phases of every war bond campaign.

Sales in this series of bonds were the only ones lagging when the campaign officially closed Dec. 8. However, E bond sales count toward the quota through Dec 31.

E bond sales of $28,924.25 yesterday put the total for this series at $570,704.75. The $562,650 quota has been exceeded by $8,054.75.

While drive leaders were jubilant today over the success of the E bond drive, Chairman Elmer J. Schoenlaub and Co-Chairman Robert E. White said the committee would not relax its effort to boost the E bond total still higher.

They pointed out that many E bonds will be bought for Christmas gifts and that a considerable amount will be sold through regular payroll deduction plans in business places and factories.

The committee also is determined to boost the E bond total as high as possible because other sections of the state are reported falling behind in the sale of this series.

Sale in State Lags

A statement by Harold E. Bredlow of Cleveland, executive director of the War Finance Committee for Ohio, said Ohio is falling slightly below the national average in the sale of E bonds. He pointed to the possibility the state may fail to reach its quota unless a special effort is put forward in the remaining two weeks of this month.

Gratification of the county committee on reaching the E quota was tempered today by receipt of word that Phil J. Trounstine, state chairman of the Ohio War Finance Committee, had suffered a heart attack at his home in Cincinnati. He is now reported to be improving.

Mr. Trounstine is known in Marion, having been here for meetings in previous war bond campaigns.

CHILD SLAVERY LAID TO NAZIS

U. S. Charges Germans Kidnaped Russian Children in Vast Work Campaign.

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, Dec. 11—Ten-year-old Russian children were kidnaped for slavery in German war factories as part of the Nazi campaign of "extermination through work," according to evidence submitted today at the war crimes trial of 21 of Hitler's top leaders.

Producing the Germans' own records of mass enslavement of conquered peoples to keep the Nazi war machine running, U. S. Assistant Prosecutor Thomas J. Dodd said the kidnaping policy was approved by Alfred Rosenberg, the party's official philosopher and fifth column expert.

Others Abducted

Also, the abduction of children of "good blood" was favored by the Gestapo to build up Germany's war-depleted population, other Nazi records disclosed.

The Nazi leaders on trial before the international military tribunal earlier today watched with mixed emotions a documentary film of themselves in the decade in which Hitler grabbed power and set Germany on the road to aggression.

Dodd described defendant Fritz Sauckel, former S. S. general and high commissioner of labor, as the kingpin of Germany's slave labor.

He read from Heinrich Himmler's speech of Oct. 4, 1943, in which the Gestapo chief told S. S. leaders:

"Our basic principle must be absolute rule for S. S. men. We must be honest, decent, loyal and comradely to members of our own blood and to nobody else. What nations can offer in the way of good blood of our type we will take, if necessary, by kidnaping their children and raising them for us."

Speer Accused

The prosecutor said the former munitions minister, Albert Speer, "bears responsibility for the estimate of the number of foreign slaves needed by the German war machine."

Others implicated in the forced labor program were Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, Arthur Seyssinquart, the Austrian Nazi who opened the frontier of his country to Hitler, and Hans Frank, the governor of conquered Poland.

The once-powerful Nazi chieftains watched the old familiar scenes from German films flash across the movie screen—Hitler ranting to enthralled brown-shirted followers, the bonfires of forbidden books, the army goose-

GRANGE CHIEF RAPS LAW TO BAN STRIKES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 11—Joseph W. Fichter, master of the Ohio State grange, declared today that until some other acceptable method of settling labor disputes is found, "strikes should not be forbidden by force of law."

Fichter, in a speech prepared for delivery at the opening of the 73rd annual convention of the Ohio State grange, asserted:

"I think the time has come to reexamine the approach which all groups of our society—agriculture, labor and management—should make in their attempt to find answers to our economic and social problems. Heretofore, these groups felt that their task was to out-pressure the others but in so doing they have not helped themselves in the long run."

The Grange leader renewed the plea for farm income on a parity with that of other groups but said, "It is hoped methods other than production control can succeed because such controls are not in keeping with an economy of abundance and...freedom and democracy.

"Likewise, farmers are not enthusiastic about subsidies but it would seem that we may be faced either with some form of subsidy on the one hand or with the unlimited operation of the law of supply and demand which heretofore has resulted in surpluses and ruinous prices for farmers."

He declared that in the past farmers had been handicapped because "they have received less than a fair share of the national income" and said that in 1940 the average net income for an Ohio farm was $900 a year while the average net income for a city family was $1,850.

"This discrepancy must be corrected if we are to increase the number of family type farms," he said.

A-BOMB TEST ON SHIPS SET

U. S. Seeks Effect on Seapower; Havoc in Europe Reported in Survey.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 — The United States, as custodian of the atomic bomb, intends to find out what it will do to warships as well as to cities and people.

An Army-Navy announcement disclosed plans were under way today for a joint test of atomic bombs against naval vessels.

Similarly the results of a scientific study of the destructive power of nuclear explosion on buildings and humans will be forecoming in a report of the United States strategic bombing survey in Japan.

Second Report

The survey, a group of civilian and military experts appointed a year ago, made its second report on a European study available today—a blood-chilling account of the horrors modern war visits upon civilians.

The announcement of the forthcoming tests against warships said only that plans for the operation involve assembling "many naval vessels," extensive use of recording instruments and the gathering of necessary personnel.

Although there has been speculation that captured Japanese ships might be used as targets, Navy officials say that because they lack such factors as extensive compartmentation, they are not fully comparable to American warships.

The second report of the strategic bombing survey covered the effects of the Allied bombing on German civilian life. The medical branch of the survey found fire was the great killer in air raids and that an estimated 500,000 persons died in German cities under the pounding of aerial fleets.

Many Subtle Effects

The doctors commented: "All aspects of bombing * * * are not as yet readily discernible. We feel that the effects of bombing civilian populations are in many ways subtle, long-range effects."

The bombings, they said, brought Germany to the brink of pestilence and famine, a problem that now threatens the postwar administration of the defeated Reich.

Maj. Cortez F. Enloe of Manhasset, N. Y., one of the survey group, said the atomic bomb raid on Nagasaki "was not nearly as bad as the area raid on the city of Hamburg." There, he said, three attacks in as many days set off fires that burned six weeks and in which 40,000 known dead were counted. An estimated 19,000 more bodies still are in the ruins two and a half years after. (Japanese authorities estimated from 40,000 to 45,000 died in the Nagasaki attack.)

During a social hour Miss Lydia Ebel, teacher of week-day religious education in the public schools of the city, played records the class had presented her for her classes. Mrs. William McGee presented a Christmas story, and E. N. Hale, secretary of the Y, was given a gift in appreciation of his work. Candy was presented children present by Santa Claus. England's Divorce Rate No Evidence of Moral Decline

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

LONDON, Dec. 11 — War has brought England a heavy increase in divorces, most of which have been based on infidelity, and in addition to those that actually have reached the courts there has been a flood of matrimonial upsets which have been adjusted through the kindly offices of welfare societies.

This seems so contrary to the ultra-conservative charter of the Briton, who always has been averse to washing family linen in public, that in searching for the reasons one naturally comes up against the question whether there has been any change in moral standards.

D. Mackenzie

Mrs. Mac and I have been delving into this highly important subject in many places, including the crowded tenement district of south London, and have talked with three British experts—one military and two civilian—who are engaged in handling thousands of so-called "poor person's cases," this is, the cases of folk who haven't enough money to finance litigation without aid.

This widely experienced trio agrees that a slump in John Bull's moral standards is not among the reasons for the increase in divorce. There obviously has been a slump in conduct, due to the extreme circumstances created by the world conflict but the moral outlook is held to remain about the same.

More Publicity

If this seems paradoxical it may be explained by the fact that atomic age society reveals what it used to conceal. When I first came to England during the last war, England as a whole regarded divorce as a disgrace, quite apart from the religious condemnation of it. Then, too, there was the code which held that Caesar's wife must be above reproach, but that Caesar himself could raise a fair amount of devil without rebuke.

A husband could divorce his wife for misconduct, but she couldn't divorce him on that ground. No fear! She had to prove some other matrimonial offense in addition to infidelity. The law coolly held that it was the husband's prerogative to sow as many wild oats as he wished. But heaven help the married woman who stubbed her toe.

This freedom of the male was well illustrated in a conversation which I had with an Englishman, of good education and considerable wealth, on one of my early voyages across the Atlantic. After several days of acquaintance he said to me in a burst of confidence:

"I have a profitable business, a good home, a charming wife to grace my table, two lovely children—and I have my mistress. What more could a man need?"

Same Old Thing

Well, I couldn't think of a single thing more he needed—excepting maybe a swift kick in the pants. However, that's neither here nor there. The point is that conduct which in those days was widely condoned might easily land him in the divorce court today although his moral attitude would be the same in both periods.

Finally in 1938 parliament altered the divorce law so that a woman could get a divorce for adultery, desertion for three years or more, physical (not mental) cruelty and incurable insanity. The result was an immediate heavy increase in the number of suits filed. This slumped temporarily after the outbreak of war, but the present year has seen all previous figures exceeded. This may represent a piling up of war time matrimonial grievances, although the general trend is said to be towards more divorces.

Navy Eligibles Get Home for Christmas

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—Navy men and women in the country who under previous rules would be eligible for release by December 31 now may be discharged immediately.

Announcing this last night, the Navy said the plan is to let as many as possible arrive home for Christmas.

Men serving on ships now in U. S. ports will be among those eligible. The only persons in the new category who may be retained are those whose services cannot be spared, or whose processing would interfere with prompt release of those previously eligible.

AYRES DECLARES U. S. DEPRESSION AT HAND

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 11—Business is now entering a primary postwar depression, Brig. Gen. Leonard P. Ayres declared today.

The economist and vice president of the Cleveland Trust Co. in his annual address for delivery before the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce declared:

"We are technically entering depression because unemployment is increasing, production is declining and national income is falling. After every great war there is a period of depression which usually coincides in timing with the transition from a war economy to a peacetime economy. This one will last until our national income stops falling and begins to increase once more.

"That change will in all probability take place in 1946, and prehaps as early as the middle of the year," the retired Army officer predicted.

"Two possible contingencies may retard its advent. One is the possibility that reconversion and industrial production may be handicappd for some months to come by the combined restraints resulting from labor strikes and from price controls.

"Another possible contingency which may operate to postpone the date when our national income will stop declining and turn upwards once more is that the wage increases for which the unions are now striking may prove to be too numerous and too large to be accommodated within the rest of the wage structure of the nation."

212,000 General Motors employes idle.

Countering a management demand for "company security," the CIO United Automobile Workers offered to subject instigators of unauthorized work stoppages in Ford plants to discharge and participants in such action to fines.

Define Phrase

An unauthorized interruption of work was described as one resulting from a dispute which could be settled by the impartial umpire or an issue not approved by the international union.

The fines—$3 a day for the first offense and $5 for the second—would be deducted from the worker's pay and donated to the president's infantile paralysis fund.

The company would agree not to permit any lockouts and could impose "appropriate financial penalties" upon any of its representatives it finds guilty of provoking a strike, such money going to the union's welfare fund.

John S. Bugas, director of Ford industrial relations, withheld comment on the union proposal "until we have had opportunity to study it."

Richard T. Leonard, UAW-CIO Ford director, said the company had agreed to discuss the union's 30 per cent wage increase demand at the next negotiating session Wednesday. The wage issue previously had not been brought up pending settlement of the "company security" dispute.

GM Contract Ends

Meanwhile, General Motors announced termination of its contract with the union more than four months in advance of its April 28, 1946, expiration date.

Chrysler Corporation's bargaining agreement with the union expired a week ago after numerous issues remained unsettled.

First returns indicated local GM unions would turn down President Truman's appeal for an immediate resumption of work.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach told the Detroit Lawyers Guild last night prolonged industrial strife would "dangerously imperil our reconversion to peacetime production."

Western Electric Co. Strike News Near

By The Associated Press

In New York, a spokesman for the Independent Electric Employes association said today a slowdown was underway in 21 Western Electric plants in New York and New Jersey and that the union was to decide today whether to call an immediate strike.

A union spokesman said they would consider delaying the strike action pending a conference with union officials of the National Federation of Telephone Workers as a preliminary step towards asking the telephone union to join a strike.

The union's 19,000 members will cut production by 30 per cent and will refuse to work overtime today.

The union is demanding a 30 per cent wage increase.

Bus service of the Columbus-Celina Coach Co. to Piqua and Celina was halted today by a strike of CIO affiliated drivers.

Frank A. Cluff, company owner, said non-union employes manned buses to three other points, suburban Upper Arlington, Grove City and the Lockbourne Army Air Base.

John J. Ryan, international representative of the United Transport Workers Union (CIO), said the strike was called to protest the company's "unfair labor practices" which he said included discharge of union drivers and refusal to discuss protests.

ARMY REVEALS TRAINING PLAN

Generals Give Congress Lowdown on How President's Proposal Would Work.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Army detailed to congress today how it would handle universal military training if President Truman's request for such a law is granted.

Four major generals explained the "here's how" to the house military committee.

They were George J. Richards, war department budget officer; Ray E. Porter, director of the special planning division; Willard S. Paul, assistant chief of staff for personnel, and I. H. Edwards, assistant chief of staff for training.

The Army earlier had presented its arguments for one-year of continuous training for all able-bodied youths in peacetime.

How It Works

The universal training program, today's witnesses said, would operate thus:

Young men in the age group 18 through 20 would be trained; the training normally would begin when a youth is 18, unless he hadn't finished high school, in which case he could wait until he graduated; a youth who had finished high school at the age of 17 could start training then, with his parents' consent.

After allowing for rejections for physical and other disabilities, the Army would train 700,000 and the navy about 260,000 annually, leaving between 140,000 and 240,000 who would be rejected each year.

They would be selected by local civilian agencies similar to local draft boards; each youth would register by mail when he becomes 18; his local board would tell him when his training would start, and there would be several different entry dates, annually, with the individual's convenience considered as much as possible. Appeals from local board rulings would be handled by civilian appeal boards.

Receiving Setup

A youth's first actual contact with the military would occur at a receiving station to which he would be ordered by his local board. There he would be given a special oath and examinations and offered a choice of services. He would be assigned to the service requested, if possible. The physical standards for acceptance would be lower than those during the war.

A youth would receive an initial recruit training period of about eight weeks to teach him the fundamentals of life as a soldier; this would be followed by technical training, then would be unit training, and finally combined training to teach the recruits how to act as an intergral part of an army; the combined training, under combat conditions, would last about eight weeks.

A selected training organization composed of national guard officers, reserve officers, and enlisted men on temporary active duty would do the training.

Furloughs Set

There would be holiday furloughs and short vacation periods during the year; there would be educational and recreational facilities, but the emphasis would be on training men to go to war in a hurry if necessary.

The trainees would be paid about $30 a month (Army regulars get $50 monthly but are subject to military duty, while a universal trainee could be assigned to actual Army duty only by special act of congress). The trainees also would have dependency benefits and would receive Army clothing, equipment and rations and insignia. The cost of the universal training program is estimated at $1,730,000,000 annually. Provision would be made for disability compensation and hospitalization.

When his year of training ended a youth would go into a reserve for six years, unless he desired to follow a military career. While in reserve status he could not be called to active duty except by act of congress.

EARLY STRIP MINING ACTION NOT LIKELY

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 11—Prospects of a special legislative session this winter to pass a bill controlling strip mining all but vanished today.

State Sen. Evert Addison (R-Columbus) chairman of the strip mine study commission, said that it would be at least April of next year before his group could draft a bill in "anything resembling final form."

Governor Lausche has indicated that he wanted to call a special session as early as possible to pass regulatory legislation, and once fixed January as a tentative date.

"I have been and will continue to cooperate with Governor Lausche in the matter of time," Addison said, "but we can't possibly be ready with a report before March 1 at the earliest.

"If the committee then finds a bill advisable, the next logical step would be public hearings on a preliminary draft of the proposed legislation. In a special session remember, you can't devote weeks to committee hearings as you do during the regular assembly.

"Thus it would be another month or so before the final draft would be ready for submission to the legislature. You can add up the time to suit yourself."

The committee will finish its inspection tours this Thursday with a trip to Jackson county, but wants to hold at least three hearings before beginning to draft its report.

Doomed Men File New Pleas

Two Facing Electric Chair Ask Supreme Court To Review Cases.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 11—Two Lorain county men, Frank Naiberg and Ralph Brown, in an effort to escape the electric chair today asked the Ohio supreme court to review their first-degree murder convictions.

Attorneys for the men based their appeal on grounds the state had failed to produce sufficient evidence to show the crimes were premeditated and deliberate, necessary to warrant first-degree murder verdicts.

Naiberg was convicted Feb. 17, 1938 of the slaying of Mary Wallace with whom he had become infatuated during the time her husband was serving a sentence in the state penitentiary. Naiberg had married in 1943 and was living in California when arrested for the Lorain murder.

Attorney Virgil C. Burgett who defended Naiberg told the court that Naiberg in his opinion was guilty of second-degree murder, but not of first because evidence failed to show premeditation. He also contended that a confession made by Naiberg had been improperly admitted as evidence.

Brown, who had been convicted by a three-judge court of the fatal stabbing of Helen Katonak Jan. 3, 1945 in Lorain pleaded insanity, but a physician held him sane.

Attorney M. Friedman contended the physician's testimony has not been conclusive that Brown was sane at the time of the crime. Friedman attacked the validity of testimony given by a state witness with respect to a previous crime which Brown had committed.

Brown stabbed Miss Katonak 32 times breaking both blades of the knife off in her body. County Prosecutor William C. Wickens detailed the murder and insisted evidence showed the crime was deliberate and premeditated.

Assistant Prosecutor R. W. Vandermark who presented the state's side of the Naiberg case also contended premeditation had been amply proven against Naiberg.

Both cases were taken under consideration by the court. Both condemned men are under indefinite stays of execution pending the court's rulings.

Driver Fined After Leaving Accident Scene

He was fined $10 and costs on the first charge and $50 and costs on the second. His operator's license was suspended for three years.

He was arrested yesterday as the result of an accident Saturday at Silver street and the C. & O. crossing. According to police report, he struck an Erie switch train when he failed to obey a watchman's order to stop, and left the scene of the accident before a report could be made.

Television Station To Pick Up Cage Game

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 — For the first time in the five years of its WCBW television station, CBS is getting ready to televise basketball pickups of local games.

CBS heretofore has confined its activities to the studio even with amateur boxing. It plans to use field equipment purchased just before the war but which was held to the laboratory because telecasting activities had been curtailed for the duration. Preliminary tests indicated it would take a week to get the two-camera layout operating properly. The basketball telecasts are listed for Wednesday nights.

Those chimes in Walter Winchell's latest ABC broadcast — and they were NBC chimes by the way—didn't bong on purpose. It was just one of those odd studio incidents that occur on occasion. The ringing did blot out one item, a 27-word brief about a marriage.

ABC leases studios from NBC. The panel which announcers for both networks use has a push-button which automatically operates the three-note chimes NBC rings at station breaks but ABC does not. It was this button that announcer Ben Grauer accidentally hit shortly after the broadcast started.

Talks tonight (Tuesday), MBS 7.15 Chester Bowles from Columbus, Ohio. MBS 9.30 American forum "Do We Need New Labor Legislation." CBS 10.30 Rep. Louis Ludlow on "Our Foreign Policy."

Harding Invades Bucyrus, Irish Open Season Tonight

The Harding Presidents journey to Bucyrus tonight in search of their second victory of the year.

Coach Bohyer's starting lineup will probably be about the same one that started the Bexley game. This consisted of Dick Holliday at center, Laurie Feaver and Jim Riley at the forwards, and Dave Lee and Henry Fields at the guard positions. Don West, who turned in a nice relief job Friday night, will be on hand and may get a starting call.

The Prexies hold a slight edge in games thus far having an even one and one record with their opponents having two contests racked up on their loss side in as many starts. Thus Harding goes into this game as a slight favorite, however any thing is liable to happen.

There will be a preliminary game between the two reserve squads preceding the main tilt.

• • •

St. Mary's cagers get into the swing of the current season tonight when they tangle with Harpster at the Edison gym. Coach Nelson Irvin is looking forward to a rather prosperous season with several capable looking prospects on his roster. For his starting lineup he will chose Pat Bray and Bob Wintersteller for the forward positions, Tom Moran at center and Bob Irvin and Charles Dunn at the guard spots.

This game was originally scheduled for Dec. 4 but was postponed until tonight due to the football banquet on that date.

The reserve game will start things rolling at 7:30 p. m. The varsity game will start about an hour later.

OSU STARS HERE FOR BENEFIT TOMORROW

A two-game basketball card will be on tap at the Armory Wednesday night. The doors will be open at 7:00 with the first game starting at 7:30. This game will be between Y-Indus Team No. 2 and a combined team from Martel and Kirkpatrick. At 8:30 the feature game between Ohio State's All Stars and Y-Indus No. 1 will go on.

On the State team are Dick Fisher, who has played one year of basketball as a regular for Ohio State; Hal Daugherty, an All-West Virginia forward; Dove, star at Ashland; Cline at Fredericktown, Fazio at Marion Harding, and O'Dea, another Ohio star. Dick Mulvaine, who plays for both the Y-Indus and the All-Stars, will keep score as he has been given typhoid shots at Fort Hayes and will be unable to risk the exercise.

Tickets have been printed with the compliments of the Home Print Shop and 400 tickets will be on sale at Markert & Lewis. The remaining ticket sale of 100 will be made at the door. The Y-Indus club is hoping to go over the top in their drive for a new motion picture projector for the "Y," the funds going for that purpose.

Ossie Solem Quits As Syracuse Coach

By The Associated Press

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 11—Oscar M. "Ossie" Solem is through as Syracuse university football coach after nine years.

The former University of Minnesota football star submitted his resignation to Athletic Director Lewis Andreas last night with "no regrets."

Chancellor William P. Tolley announced the resignation had been accepted.

The athletic governing board said that no successor would be announced for a week or 10 days, but at least five prominent football personalities were reported unofficially in the running for the post.

Solem's resignation had been rumored since the close of the 1945 season when his Orangemen turned in a lone victory out of seven starts.

MAJORS GIVE MIXED CHEER FOR CHANDLER

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 11—Commissioner A. B. Chandler had a paradoxical vote of confidence from his baseball bosses, six minor leagues were promoted a notch, and two National league doormats had launched a 1946 rebuilding program as the major leagues moved into the second day of their winter meeting today.

Chandler, rebuffed by the minor leagues in Columbus last week, was depicted by the majors as a victim of "misunderstanding," but also defined as a commissioner without the dictatorial power of his predecessor, the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

The majors approved the amendment to major-minor agreement adopted by the minors last week which removes from the commissioner authority to rule baseball legislation "detrimental." This was the same rule adopted by the majors a few weeks after Landies' death in November, 1944, and before Chandler became commissioner.

The majors approved the boost of the International league, American associatoin and Pacific Coast league to "AAA" classification; the Southern association and Texas league to "AA"; and the South Atlantic league to "A." Thus the top minor league clubs have attained their long ambition for higher player draft prices—in the case of the three former class AA, a hike from $7,500 to $10,000 per player.

The bigwigs huddled in a joint American-National league session to study the plea of the Pacific Coats league to become a third major league, but deferred action until Wednesday's closing joint meeting with Commissioner Chandler.

OSU's Amling Squeezes In As Army Hogs All - America

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—The 1945 All-America football team, (above) the twenty-first selection of Associated Press sports writers, is one of the fastest and heaviest bunch of pigskinners ever chosen on one squad.

Featuring a speedy, brawny line averaging 206 pounds per man, weighing between 174 and 205 pounds, this season's big eleven also has four repeaters from the 1944 team.

glinfoAt-9c3S shrdlu cmfw mw

If that isn't enough to appease any pigskin appetite, cut yourself a slice of those five powerful West Pointers in the all-important line-up—backs Felix (Doc) Blanchard and Glenn Davis, guard John Green and tackles DeWitt Coulter and Albert Nemetz—and remember they represent the greatest team in Army's history.

Two Others Repeat

Besides Blanchard and Davis, back Robert Fenimore, Oklahoma A. & M.; and end Hubert Bechtol, Texas university, win All-America honors for the second successive season. It is the first time since 1942 that any stars repeated. The last time four players turned the trick was back in 1940.

Blanchard, Davis and Fenimore create another first by being named to the backfield two years in a row, and a fan has to go all the way back to 1914 to find a season when five teammates—all from Havard—won recognition.

As far as sections go, once again the East rules the roost with 13 grid greats. Besides the five Army players, end Richard Duden of Navy makes the first team, three other Eastern collegians are on the second team and four on the third.

Midwest Second

The Midwest is second with 12 representatives, Fenimore and guard Warren Amling of Ohio State on the first team, six second stringers and four on the third team.

The South placed one man, center Vaughn Mancha of Alabama on the first eleven, one on the second and two on the third. Besides Bechtol, the Southwest landed a tackle on the second team. The Far West has quarterback Herman Wedemeyer of St. Mary's running the big backfield and a guard on the third eleven.

Honorable Mention

Included among those receiving honorable mention are:

Ends: Carley, Minnesota; Ford, Michigan; Kluszewski, Indiana; Mead, Wisconsin; Rayensberg, Indiana; Renner, Michigan; Skoglund, Notre Dame.

Tackles: Dixon, Ohio State, Hughes, Purdue; Thomas, Ohio State.

Guards: Bingaman, Illinois.

Centers: Cannady, Indiana; Walsh, Notre Dame.

Backs: Angsman, Notre Dame; Cody, Purdue; Fisher, Ohio State; Pousetto, Michigan; Ruggerio, Notre Dame.

Senior Stars Run Off With AP's 1945 All-Ohio Eleven

Warren Negro End Only Repeater Chosen from Nearly 4,000 High School Gridders in State.

By HAROLD HARRISON
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 11—Presenting Ohio's 1945 high school football roll of honor—the 11 seniors chosen today for The Associated Press' annual all-state team.

The 11 first-stringers, one a "repeater" from the 1944 team, were chosen from hundreds of nominating ballots sent in by coaches and sports writers and they stand as the top 11 of all the 4,000 boys who made up the first teams of Ohio's high schools.

The first team is big, fast and powerful. The line averages 186 pounds and the backfield 177. The second team is virtually the same size, 185 pounds to the man in the line and 177 in the backfield. It, too, is almost an all-senior aggregation, the only junior being Ralph Riegle, the lad from Elida who led the state in scoring with 199 points.

The only repeater from the 1944 team was Leonard Corbin, Negro end from Warren. He rated as one of the great players in the 1944 season and came back during the past fall to run wild despite the fact he was a marked man in every Warren game.

The Associated Press 1945 All-Ohio high school football team.

Leonard Corbin, Warren, end; Richard O'Hanlon, East Liverpool, tackle, Robert Lally, Cleveland Cathedral Latin, guard; Clinton Knitz, Toledo Waite, center; Charles Siferd, Lima South, guard; Robert Plotz, Martins Perry, tackle; Bruce Beatty, Canton Lincoln, end; backs: Clifford Wilke, Hamilton Catholic, William Fleitz, Newark, and Burtus (Bert) Webb, Massillon, and Dan Modak, Campbell Memorial.

Second team: Joseph Koepnich, Dayton Chaminade, end; James Marck, Cincinnati Purcell, tackle; Robert Schmitter, Logan, guard; Richard Kane, Newark, center; Ralph Wagner, Youngstown Rayen, guard; Jack Dawson, Toledo Waite, tackle; John Houser, Upper Sandusky, end; backs: Ralph Riegle, Elida, Robert Robison, Toledo Scott, Abe Williams, Warren, and Ralph Short, Martins Ferry.

HARDING OPPONENTS HONORED ON TEAM

Several players who faced Marion Harding this past season were honored on the All-Ohio football selections of The Associated Press. Charles Siferd, Lima South senior, won a guard position on the first team. Honorable mention went to Amsbaugh, Mansfield end; Wertz, Piqua back; Koledin, Dover's star back, and Slager, the flashy backfield star from Columbus West.

TWO UPPER SANDUSKY MEN WIN ALL-OHIO SPOTS

In addition to placing John Houser as an end on the second string All-Ohio football team of The Associated Press, Upper Sandusky's unbeaten and untied Rams won an honorable mention spot. The award went to Rife, speedy back on the Wyandot county team.

McCormick Sold To Phillies by Redlegs

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Dec. 11—Frank McCormick, whose booming bat and ready smile endeared him to thousands of Cincinnati baseball fans, is moving to Philadelphia and his departure leaves the Redlegs with just one member of the "big four" that powered them to two pennants and a world championship.

The slugging first baseman was sold yesterday to the Philadelphia Phillies for $20,000 and an undesignated player, teamed with catcher Ernie Lombardi, pitcher Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters to form a championship quartet in the Reds' lusch days of 1939 and '40. Lombardi was sold to the Boston Braves in 1942 and a year later Derringer donned the Chicago Cubs' uniform. Walters, veteran right-hander, survives.

SNOW CAUSES 5 ACCIDENTS

Slippery Streets Blamed for Traffic Mishaps Listed in Monday Reports.

Marion's second snow storm of the season resulted in five traffic accidents Monday afternoon and night. None was serious.

Considerable damage was done to an automobile owned by Theodore Williams of 566 Herman street when it was struck Monday night by an unidentified car as it was parked on Leader street just south of the viaduct.

Minor damage resulted when cars driven by Donald Doore, 31, of 178 East Center street and L. E. Grimes of Ft. Wayne, Ind., bumped together at the intersection of East Center and Greenwood streets yesterday at 4:32 p. m. Doore had stopped for a traffic light and Grimes was unable to stop on the icy pavement, police reported.

Ice on the road caused a car driven by B. L. Duncan, 70, of 391 East George street to skid into a car driven by Don W. Phillamy, 22, of 349 Hane avenue yesterday at 4:20 p. m., at Main and Fairground streets. Both had just started up after waiting on a traffic light, police said. Damage was slight.

A similar accident occurred at 12:30 p. m. at East Center and State streets when a car driven by Mrs. Gerald Philips of New Lexington, O., could not be stopped and bumped a car driven by Shirley Kuhn of 472 Jefferson street, police said. No damage resulted.

Cars driven by Dennis Akers, 23, of 240 Chicago avenue and Raymond Daniels, 30, 336 Lee street collided Monday at 5:17 p. m. at Mark and Patterson streets with some damages to each. Icy pavement was named by police report as the cause of the accident.

Bodies of Veteran and Child Sought

By The Associated Press

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 11—An ex-soldier and a one-year-old boy were still missing today as firemen stopped a search of the ruins of the Grand hotel to permit the razing of the fire destroyed building.

City police said relatives had been unable to locate Harold Beckwith, 30, of Parkersburg, and a cousin of one of the five known victims of the Sunday night fire. Beckwith was believed to have gone to the hotel to visit Edward I. Lewis, 36, who died along with his wife and two sons.

One-year-old Edward Lewis Jr. also may have been in the 34-room structure when the fire broke out, police said.

Nine other persons were injured when they jumped into life nets or were burned.

State Fire Marshal Robert F. Kidd of Charleston took charge of the investigation. A contract was let yesterday to pull down the walls to make it safe for examination.

GRAIN FUTURES WIN BACK MOST OF LOSS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 11—Grain futures regained most of their losses toward the end of today's trading, after all pits had recorded recessions. Rye at times was as much as 2 cents under yesterday's close.

Traders found little buying incentive until near the end when prices seemed right for a rally.

Wheat carried a steady undertone during the day, yielding somewhat to the sharper breaks in rye.

PLANE STOCKS RESIST SLUMP

Aviation Issues, Supported by Backlogs, Lead Trading on Wall Street.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—Strength of aircrafts contrasted with generally lower trends in today's stock market although selling was relatively light in virtually all departments.

While the aviations, bolstered by sizable backlogs and earnings potentialities, were in front from the start, most steels, rails, motors and "blue chips" displayed slipping tendencies. Declines to 2 or more points predominated near the fourth hour.

Touching new highs were Douglas Aircraft, up better than 5 points; Boeing, United Aircraft, Sperry and Lockheed. Ahead at intervals were American Telephone, Oliver Corp., and General Electric. Down the greater part of the proceedings were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Standard Oil (NJ), U. S. Rubber, Loew's, Shamrock Oil, Allied Chemical and Sears Roebuck.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

As the coarse epithets fell from Faith's childish lips, Dicky's eyebrows contracted into a frown as black as his mother's, and comically like hers. Looking quickly at me, he then made the frown vocal.

"I don't like this at all," he said crisply.

"Neither do I," I told him. "But in justice to the absent, let me put some questions first."

"Okay!" he said. "It's your department.

Then he loosened his arms, which had been holding the child closely.

"Climb down now, and go over to your mother, Faith," he said. She has some questions she wants to ask you."

The child looked up at his face, then at her grandmother's and then at mine, before she obeyed him. The absence of smiles evidently sent a message to her soul, for she heaved a deep sigh as she started across the floor, dragging her feet a little.

"Oh, Gee!" she exclaimed drearily. "I suppose I'm in Dutch again, but I don't know what for."

Back of her, Jack, Katherine, Noel and Mary clapped handkerchiefs to their mouths, and Dicky's lips were twitching, while his frown had vanished. But my mother-in-law's displeasure was not diminished, although I knew that Faith was not the object of it.

Outragous Language

"If I have told you once, Margaret," she said, "I have told you a hundred times that you ought to take those boys to task severely for their outrageous language. It is bad enough for them to talk that way themselves, but for them to teach an innocent baby words like the ones we have just heard from her lips, is—I haven't words to describe the atrocity of it."

I reflected, a little grimly, that her vocabulary, and her voice were keeping up fairly well, but aloud, I temporized.

"I'm sure anything they have said has been unintentional, Mother," I said, trying to keep my voice calm and judicial. "If I may talk to Faith for a minute or two—"

"I am not aware that I am putting any obstacles in your way," she interrupted me summarily and frigidly, and I realized with regret for my impatience, that this comparatively mild temper tantrum was something which might have been expected from her at this juncture. She had just undergone a grueling and exciting experience as the custodian of the code message which Lillian, and, I guessed, Hugh Grantland, had sent to my father, and she was now getting the nervous reaction from the strain.

Dicky Stiffens

From the corner of my eye, I saw Dicky stiffen in his wheel chair, and was afraid that he would rush to my defense with some word of rebuke for his mother's interference. My husband does not hesitate to "call me down" himself, but he permits no one else, not even his mother, to share that privilege.

I began to cough violently, always a signal of mine for attention from Dicky, and when his eyes met mine, I sent him one of our private little signals which meant "Hold everything!"

He relaxed, and nodded, and I held out my arms to my little daughter, advancing toward me at a literal 'snail's pace."

"Don't be frightened, Darling!" I admonished her. "You're not going to be punished for anything."

Stiffly Aloof

"I know, that," she said, surprising me, as she entered the circle of my arms. But according to her invariable custom when she is being reprimanded, she held herself stiffly aloof from me.

"You only punish me when I've done something bad," she said. "And I haven't sassed anybody, or said 'I won't', or broken anything because I was mad or thrown anything out of the windows to see it go down, or—"

I shot a glance at the convulsed faces behind her, and cut short her recital of childish crimes.

"No, you haven't done any of those things," I said, "but you did say some words that weren't nice at all."

Then, with the diabolical insouciance of childhood which may be either innocent or designed one, never knows, she gave me an answer which for the instant stopped my disciplinary procedure.

"What words?" she asked with wide open eyes raised to mine.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M. D.

Arthritic Pains

Mistakes in the handling of patients with arthritis or inflammation of the joints may lead to deformities and crippling. Persons who have arthritis should not delay in seeking medical attention so that the physician may determine the kind of arthritis present and start proper treatment at once.

Unfortunately, up to the present, there has been no direct cure discovered for arthritis but at the same time, treatment carried out even over a period of months or years, if necessary, may help to check the progress of the disease and prevent crippling.

The most common type of arthritis is known as rheumatoid arthritis. It is the kind which occurs in younger adults. According to Doctor Bernard I. Comroe of Philadelphia, persons should not be led to believe that improvement will be steady or uninterrupted, since such things as changes in the weather and emotional upsets may cause the disease to flare up. Not only is it necessary to treat the joints, but also the patient's general health and comfort.

In carrying out the treatment, the patient should not go to bed for prolonged periods without having proper exercise and massage. Excessive movement of the joints may lead to further damage and to increased pain, swelling and stiffness, but every patient should have enough exercise to keep stiffness of the affected joints from developing, and should have enough rest to permit healing to go on. The joints should evidence that a change to a warm, of persistent pain or fatigue.

Applying heat to the joints is also helpful in the treatment in most instances and, as a rule, this can be applied at home by using hot baths or a heating pad. If the knees are involved by the arthritis, every attempt must be made to keep the legs stretched out. If the patient walks with his knee bent, it may be necessary to use a plaster cast for a while to keep the leg straight. Splints may also be used.

Many persons with arthritis wonder if a change of climate will not bring about a definite improvement. There is no definite dence that a change to a warm, dry climate is particularly beneficial.

There are various drugs which may be employed to give temporary relief from pain and these should be used under the directions of a physician.

There is need for a great deal more study of the causes of arthritis and methods for relieving it.

TRUMAN PLAN SNAGS BIG HOSPITAL BILL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—President Truman's proposals for a broad national health program posed a threat today to senate approval of a $700,000,000 hospital program.

The curious snag resulted from months of work by a bi-partisan trio, Senators Taft (R-Ohio), Hill (D-Ala), and Ellender (D-La) in drafting their plan to provide the country with more hospitals and health centers

They introduced their bill before Mr. Truman's health program message reached Capital Hill.

Yesterday Senator Murray (D-Mont), chairman of the labor committee which approved the hospital bill, offered seven amendments which he told the senate would bring the measure into line with Mr. Truman's program.

Among other things Murray's amendments would double the amount of federal funds and strengthen federal control at the entire program.

Taft served notice he was opposed to Murray's amendments And Hill, Democratic whip, indicated he would support the Ohio Republican because of the long period already devoted to perfecting the hospital bill.

Murray urged a federal contribution of $150,000,000 for each of the next five years, instead of $75,000,000 previously agreed upon.

U. S. Sub Sank New Jap Carrier in First Battle, Enemy Reveals

By The Associated Press

TOKYO—Japan's largest and newest aircraft carrier was sunk by a U. S submarine in its first engagement in the Philippine sea in 1944

The 40,000-ton Taisho, launched as Japan's answer to ever-increasing American air supremacy, exploded and sank six hours after it was punctured by a single torpedo on June 18, its senior staff officer disclosed today.

Another carrier, the 30,000-ton Chiokaku, also was sunk by an American submarine on the first day of that engagement.

Capt. Toshikazu Ohmae, the staff officer aboard the Taisho, told the story of its end to The Associated Press in describing the first battle of the Philippine sea—which Japanese officers consider one of the most decisive engagements in Pacific naval warfare

The Taisho was flagship of the attacking force under Adm. Jisaburo Ozawa. The group was attempting to save Japanese surface ships after their air power was smashed off Saipan.

After it was hit, the ship steamed northward beyond the range of American planes

Suddenly, the Taisho exploded violently and disintegrated into flaming wreckage It sank in a matter of seconds, and only a few of the crew survived.

The staff officer said he and Ozawa had been transferred to another vessel 15 minutes before the explosion.

Ohmae said the first battle of the Philippine sea was the most decisive naval battle of the war.

"Japan lost its sea power in the Pacific after that and was unable to protect the homeland," he said

The Japanese sent a powerful fleet in an air spearheaded attempt to thwart the American thrust at Saipan—whose conquest would provide the United States its first mid-Pacific base within bombing range of the Japanese home islands

Ohmae said the attacking force included six battleships, nine carriers, 13 cruisers and about 30 destroyers plus auxiliaries.

Early on June 18, the carriers launched about 45 Zeroes.

American planes smashed the air attack, downing about 35 Zeros broken. Ozawa ordered his fleet forces With [illegible] spearhead surface ships to withdraw.

ROBERT AXE NAMED TO LIONS OFFICE

Appointed to Office as William Luce Is Advanced.

Robert Axe was appointed third vice president by the board of the Marion Lions club at a weekly luncheon at Hotel Harding yesterday noon He succeeds William Luce who was advanced to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Albert Mattes who left town Speaker for the meeting was O H Neimeyer of Prospect, game protector who talked on the present pheasant shortage With pictures he illustrated the causes of the situation which, he stated, is prevalent throughout the state —and has steadily grown worse during the past 10 years

Reasons for the shortage is lack of cover for the birds, the abundance of foxes which devour the birds, and crows and hawks which snatch the eggs from the nests and eat the young.

As a starter toward remedying the situation and protecting the natural supply of birds, 168 foxes have been reported killed since April, he said

Mr. Neimeyer also showed pictures of his kennels of English setters which he raised at his home in Prospect, which have won 1,600 awards in the United States and Canada at dog shows during the past 45 years.

Arrangements were made for a Christmas dinner party to be held next Monday evening at Hotel Harding.

L. H. Larsen and Everett Miller were guests and Dr H R. Finney and Robert Maynard were welcomed as returned members.

NAZIS

stepping down the streets of conquered neighbors

The documentary film of Nazi aggression, assembled in Berlin by naval officers from confiscated German movies, was shown as evidence before the international military tribunal.

Once or twice the defendants laughed, particularly at a shot of Hermann Goering—looking far younger and harder than he does in the prisoners' box—rubbing his hands gleefully at the humiliation of Britain's Neville Chamberlain and France's Edouard Diladier at Munich, when they signed away the Czech Sudetenland to Hitler

Titled "The Nazi Plan," the film portrayed the rise of national socialism Its closing scenes showed the trial of Germans who attempted to kill Hitler with a bomb July 20, 1944.

What Endocreme can do to bless you with a younger looking face

Think of the added beauty a more youthful face and throat can give! Then harken to this: Scientific research has proved that ENDOCREME can, for most women, contribute to this desirable result in a way formerly thought impossible. Many thousands are now finding that ENDOCREME actually helps to improve the skin itself, not just its transient, superficial "look." This is because ENDOCREME, alone, possesses ACTIVOL™. This ACTIVOL™ is a scientific replacement for woman's own natural skin-vitalizing substance. Absorbed by the skin, it helps to restore the normal growth of cells and tissues. It thus aids the skin to become fresher, smoother, more alluringly "alive." What bigger value can any woman young or old ask for her cosmetic dollars? The great majority get big improvement in only 30 days.

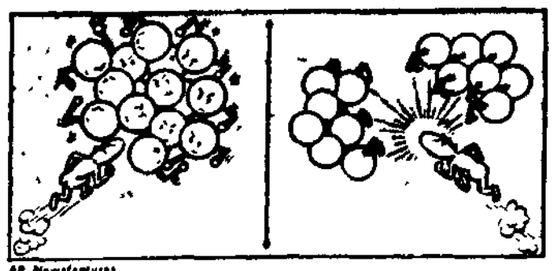
ATOMIC SECRETS

NO. 4—NERVOUS ATOMS



AP Newsfeatures

EXPERIMENTS disclosed that different atoms, like people, react in various ways when shot at. If a neutron hits the nucleus of that type of uranium which has 143 neutrons in its nucleus in addition to 92 protons (U-235), the nucleus splits and releases energy. If the external neutron hits a uranium nucleus that contains 146 neutrons in addition to 92 protons (U-238), the nucleus doesn't split but instead absorbs the neutron. The atom's weight is increased from 238 to 239, and then, in a mysterious series of processes, the atom changes into two new elements, first neptunium and then plutonium. Further, it was found that the final plutonium was just as nervous and as readily split as U-235 if it was hit with a neutron bullet

No Merry Christmas for Doomed Youth

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Dec. 11—Even an early Christmas could bring no joy to 14-year-old Jimmy Sarchet.

Jimmy's world as he knew it a year ago has been blacked out for several months, leaving code messages tapped on his palm as his only remaining contacts with life.

A spinal injury began taking its toll when strength started ebbing from his legs Then pressure developed on the brain.

Jimmy says his only Christmas wish is to go back to church and hear the yuletide music. But even if he lives two weeks more—and doctors doubt it—he could not enjoy it, for he has lost his hearing and sight.

Now his mother, Mrs. Fred Sarchet, taps messages of encouragement in Morse code on his hand

U. S. ACTS TO DEPORT SPY WHO DIDN'T SPY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—The justice department proceeded today with plans to deport 40 year old Frederick Emil Bauer, described as a trained Nazi spy who didn't work at it.

Instead, the department says, he joined the U. S. Army and became a sergeant. Now the Army has discharged him without honor and he has been interned at Indianapolis as an alien enemy.

The "evidence against Bauer rests on his own voluminous confession to government authorities," a department announcement said. It related Bauer's account was as follows:

Born in Germany in 1905, he came to the United States in 1930, in 1935 became a naturalized citizen and was admitted to the bar in Washington.

In June, 1940, having returned to Germany, he joined the German army, "taking the fatal oath of allegiance which expatriated him." He received spy training and became a lieutenant. In August, 1941, he was smuggled back to the United States and lived on "spy funds" until May 2, 1942, when he enlisted in the U. S. Army.

"No overt acts, however, implementing his training and equipment, are reported," the department said.

The department said he would receive a "full and fair hearing" before a repatriation hearing board.

Governor Hires Vet Rejected by Industry

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O. Dec. 11—Ohio hired a disabled veteran of World War II today after, he said, private industry had rejected him because of a physical handicap.

John Pierce, 20, of Columbus, who lost an arm in the battle of the Belgian bulge, called on Gov. Lausche, asking for "any kind of job." The chief executive gave him a $150-a-month job in the department of public works.

"He is one of the few veterans who has come in and asked for any job, instead of demanding a job," commented John Likar, the governor's secretary.

Club Backs Drive To Collect Musical Instruments for Vets

A display of musical instruments in the central show window of the Markert and Lewis store was placed there by the war service division of the Marion Lecture-Recital club in the interest of obtaining such instruments for veterans hospitals. The display includes a guitar and a mother-of-pearl inlaid accordion, donated by Marion persons, and posters by Harry Richardson. Musical instruments and phonograph records are being called for by many veterans hospitals.

In a statement concerning the need for instruments and records, Mrs. Stewart Vermilion, war service chairman of the music club, speaking for the hospitals, stated, "Musical war service should go on as long as there is a man in uniform who craves the release that music brings. Increasing attention is being given to musical therapy, particularly for the mentally ill, and 215 hospitals are receiving service. Music fills many an otherwise dull hour in the long days spent in a hospital. In addition to such work in the hospitals, instruments and records fill a need on ships, trains and for occupation forces."

She quoted a statement from a discharged South Pacific veteran who was a patient at Crile hospital in Cleveland many months. "Music plays a great part in soothing the nerves of the patients, particularly the psychiatric-neurotic. When records of classical music are played, they show marked improvement. All the boys appreciate the records which are in such constant use, they need frequent replacing. The fact that all, even those in wheelchairs, can amuse themselves by playing the records they wish, helps to keep them in good spirits."

Japs Who Gave Up U. S. for Homeland Find Life Tough

By The Associated Press

URAGA, JAPAN, Dec. 11—In the stench-ridden halls of the filthy barracks in which Japanese civilians returning from the United States are housed, one of those who renounced his American citizenship said:

"This place is terrible! Why can't the American army disinfect these buildings? Why didn't they do it before we arrived?"

"It's tough, brother, but the American Army has nothing to do with this place. You are under the Japanese government now," a reporter told him.

He said his name was Robert Tsuida, that he was born in Hawaii, had been a cook in Chicago.

"We never thought we were coming back to anything as bad as this," he complained.

The "welcome" in Japan for these repatriates who asked to be relieved of their American citizenship is indeed a harsh revelation.

Civilians trudged for a mile up a muddy road to reach the camp—a half-dozen weather-beaten, unpainted barracks. Windows were broken, letting a chill wind whip through the barren rooms.

There were no beds, just straw sleeping mats.

At least 500 of the repatriates were waiting in the mess hall, where each person was served one saucer of rice—and one apricot, shriveled to the size of a walnut.

Try ALL-BRAN Apple Spice Muffins!
(No sugar, no shortening, but lots of praise!)

It's hard to believe such luscious muffins are sugarless and shortening-less—but they are! They owe their wonderful flavor to a combination of ginger, cinnamon, molasses and the tasty, nut-sweet goodness of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. RAILROADING IS People

Nothing in this world is as interesting as—people! Nothing is as important as people . . . people who live and grow, love and get married . . . people with their habits and manners, their likes and dislikes. Nothing really matters but—people.

The city? We think of it as people.
The countryside is people. And so is the railroad . . . just folks—all of them!

Locomotives, cars, equipment . . . all these have been thought out, designed, engineered, developed and built by people for people. They are of value only as they serve people.

We of the Pennsylvania Railroad try to keep in mind always: everything we do is measured by how we help people, how we get along with people, how we treat people. Our greatest reward is in having people think well of us . . . because we have served them well!

Contrary to Their Plan

THE vehement tone used by the General Motors council of United Auto Workers in attacking President Truman for his strike-ending proposal confirms the CIO declaration of war by Philip Murray, the organization's president. Mr. Truman's intervention in the General Motors strike, which is in reality a UMW campaign against the whole automobile industry and his relatively mild proposal for legislation to minimize work stoppages plainly are contrary to the plan of the CIO leaders.

They are not interested in Mr. Truman's ideas, except as the ideas may suit their purposes. It is apparent that stopping the General Motors strike or reducing the possibility of similarly important strikes in other basic industries is not one of CIO's purposes. After four years of war, when prevention of strikes was the common aim, it is a little hard for the public to get used to the change, but the idea seems to be that strikes no longer are to be averted.

Though it is obvious that postwar labor relations are passing through an interval of radical change, this particular change needs more explanation from those who are supporting it than they have offered. As the situation now stands, the country is handicapped and made apprehensive by actual and threatened work stoppages that can ball up industrial reconversion and postwar economic stabilization beyond repair. These stoppages are nominally over the issue of higher rates, but actually over a contention by union leaders that henceforth unions should determine what part of the cost of industrial operation should be represented by wages. The fundamental issue is the traditional right of management to make this decision.

President Truman tried to bring the opposing viewpoints on this and other questions together by means of a management-labor conference under auspices of the federal government. Pending outcome of the conference, congress suspended action on proposals for legislation to secure the general welfare against the growing threat of a complete breakdown of industrial discipline. The conference failed. Its delegates were unable to agree on anything except generalities on which there could be no disagreement.

Then, with congress prepared to open debate and take action on proposals which might have reflected more anger than statesmanship, President Truman intervened with a proposal for fact-finding commissions, cooling-off periods before strikes could be called and compulsory arbitration. His ideas were not generally judged to be extreme.

Yet, without hesitation, organized labor leaders, especially spokesmen for CIO, attacked the ideas and Mr. Truman. Their vigor left little room for doubt that he had precipitated an open break with this faction of the Democratic party's political strength by merely proposing intervention. The labor leaders are offering no alternative, except to continue what they are doing, which is to close down industries at their own discretion. They have said, in effect, to President Truman, to the congress of the United States and to the American people that they do not welcome and will not tolerate intervention or interference and that the result of going against their wishes will be reprisals through their political organization, the PAC.

The Minority Party

GOVERNOR DWIGHT H. GREEN of Illinois oversimplifies two-party politics when he tells the Republican national committee that the party has lost its main reason for existence if it cannot win national elections.

The Republican party could continue to lose national elections, as has been its lot since 1932, and still have intact its main reason for existence, which is to serve as one of the nation's two major parties. The Democrats certainly did not lose their main reason for existence during the many years they were the minority party after the administration of Andrew Johnson. They contributed as much to government, relative to their responsibility, as the majority. The Republican party today is indispensable, whether it wins national elections or must be satisfied with a fair share of governorships and congressional seats. Its main reason for existence is not to be the majority party, but to stand as the political alternative to the majority.

Eventually, the public will be ready for the alternative, just as it turned to the alternative in 1932 when the Republican party was unable to command a vote of confidence. Certainly no one looking back at 1932 now can find any evidence that the Democrats in that politically fateful year were any better situated than the Republicans are now. No doubt many Democrats suspected that their party never could win another national election. But the decision was not with the Democratic party; it was with the 39,000,000-odd voters who went to the polls and switched party responsibility for the federal government from the ins to the outs. Impatient Republicans today who wonder if it ever can happen again should remember that it happened to the Democrats under circumstances a lot less favorable than those beginning to loom in the direction of 1946.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Mallon Looks Into the British Loan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11. — A few of the oldest administration congressmen said God loves everyone and the British loan agreement is a good one, immediately after it was announced.

The suspicious or knowing congressmen roundly denounced it.

But the bulk ducked and ran when they saw news-men coming to seek comment. These detected a high aroma of unpopularity about the whole affair wafted in the first puff of the news from the state department. They did not know much of its vast unfathomable ramifications.

What they knew, they did not like, and the deeper they went into it, the less they liked it. It was so bad few wanted to be connected with it one way or another.

Indeed its sponsors, in the sacred halls of the department, were not eager to champion the success of their negotiations in congress. They rather made plain they would welcome a delay at least until parliament has acted on the Bretton Woods agreement, and would not press for approval until after the Christmas holidays.

If Britain turns down Bretton Woods, our sensationally modest official enthusiasm for this thing, will be revised downward.

The first superficial examination of the proposition by the congressmen was enough for most.

More Than Old Debt.

We are to lend Britain far more than her whole cancelled first world war debt. The amount to be advanced is $3,750,000,000 while the old war debt still owed is $2,331,000,000, less than two-thirds as much.

The only way we can raise this money is by borrowing from our people. The interest charge to us is not less than 2% per cent. The loan to the British carries only two per cent. But we must pay our people interest from the date of the loan.

For the British, interest will not start until five years, at least so the publicity said. Actually her interest payments will not start until five years after December 31, 1946—more than six years hence.

The British permanent undersecretary of exchequer, Sir Edmond Bridges, succeeded in slipping the extra year in at the last moment.

Britain can use this money anyway she chooses. The publicity put stress upon her likelihood of buying American products. This is but one purpose among many specified. The others are so broad as to permit her to spend the sums through her treasury anyway she wishes.

Simultaneous announcement was made by Mr. Atlee to parliament that, of course, he was going ahead with the socialization of Britain, to buy coal mines, utilities and other businesses, he will issue bonds to his people, but not delayed action bonds. No one can give me offhand the cost of British socialization but it will be certainly $3,750,000,000 added to British exchequer obligations.

The use of our money to protect the British financial position permits the socialist experiment. Otherwise that added debt could not be carried, judging from the official British statements of her financial plight.

But on our loan, we get nothing for five years (what will happen in this atomic age by then?) while Britain can draw the money as she wants it.

Best Feature of Deal.

This is, strangely enough, the best feature of the deal. It gets worse from here on. The lend lease deal is almost unbelievable. Britain owes us about $25,000,000,000 under what Mr. Roosevelt deceptively called "lend lease."

Now it is officially said this money and goods were neither loaned nor leased. Mr. Roosevelt had a provision for repayment in kind, so we could at least get some of our equipment back for use or scrap. That is forgotten in the current arrangement.

Britain gets the title to everything we have given her for what the agreement calls a payment of $50,000,000 to $700,000,000. This is not a "payment." We merely add it on to the loan which is to start becoming a loan six years after the money is paid. Actually Britain pays nothing unless or until she pays the new loan 56 years hence. In short we throw away $25,000,000,000 of debt for a new debt of "$50,000,000 to $700,000,000" to begin in six years.

What do we get? We get promises. Nothing definite about anything. No time limit or signed specific plan of immediate action. We get a hope of negotiating the abandonment of the various gypping arrangements by which Britain has maintained her trade — empire preferences, anti-dollar pools, sterling, blocs and cartels.

They do not promise to abandon all these, immediately or at any time. They promise to negotiate about abandoning them, which, of course, means nothing. Whether they do abandon these practices or not is left to future negotiation—and a world trade conference next year.

Note well Mr. Truman's careful words about the credit "making it possible" for the United Kingdom to expand multilateral trade; and Mr. Vinson's claim that it opened "the likelihood" of a less competitive trade world.

We got "possibilities" and "likelihoods"; and they got the $25,000,000,000 we have already supplied plus $3,750,000,000 more at less interest than it will cost our treasury to raise the money for any purpose she chooses.

Searching for Solvency

By Raymond Moley

THE date is fast approaching when the President must present his annual budget to congress. Amid the gloomy apprehension which precedes that ominous presentation of the cost of government next year, there are a few bright omens. One of them is a clear recession in the strength of the spending-for-spending's-sake school in Washington. Another is the presence of a real statesman, Senator Walter F. George, as chairman of the senate finance committee. Another is the lively interest and activity of local economy organizations throughout the United States. Finally, there are cold figures to support a hope that the national budget may come closer to a balance than most people anticipate.

Tax Foundation

No organization has been doing more tireless and effective work toward a solvent nation than the Tax Foundation, which has just celebrated its tenth birthday. The credit for the founding and the building up of this agency belongs to Lewis H. Brown. The Foundation consists, in the main, of a central research and public-information office in New York, financed by voluntary contributions. The staff of the foundation has engaged in continuous studies of taxes and public expenditures, which have not only helped shape public opinion, but which have been of real service to hard-working committees of Congress which deal with fiscal policies. There is no suggestion of partisanship in the Foundation. Two former under secretaries of the treasury who served in the Roosevelt administration are members of the Foundation board, one of whom, John W. Hanes, is the newly elected president of the Foundation.

The Foundation has encouraged and given technical help to 36 state economy leagues or committees. Each state organization is supported by the citizens of the state concerned. It works with state legislatures, city councils and administrative officials. Immense savings have been achieved through the influence of these bodies. They are, as is the Tax Foundation itself, non-political.

Mr. Hanes is also chairman of the Citizens National committee, a group, independent of the Tax Foundation, which cooperates with official Washington and which publishes useful information about the financial problems of government.

Something To Watch

This whole effort toward sound finance has certain characteristics which are worth noting in these days of internal conflicts. It has no enemies, for everyone or nearly everyone favors economy and lower taxes. Labor, management, farmers, all can agree that there will be more for everyone if governments cost less. If a high level of production is attained, there will be a high level of employment, and the burden of taxes will be lighter. The encouragement given by a balanced budget to people who invest in production activities is obvious to everyone. It is also clear that the ideal of all parties and factions is that jobs should come through private employment, not through government doles or made-work. Presidents Roosevelt and Truman have both said that. And even the now badly tattered Full Employment Bill asserts that fact.

An unprecedented national debt has given every American the haunting fear that we shall never find the way to solvency. But with reasonable agreement on all sides on a number of simple tax and spending principles, we can, perhaps within a year, carry the debt and pay for our government without borrowing more. The Tax Foundation is trying to get the tests necessary to such an agreement over to all the people who, in the last analysis, pay the bills.

Investment

In a roundup of future investment results, the Bell Telephone system recently reviewed these facts.

It must earn at least from 6½ to 7 per cent on its total capital investment to attract the capital it requires for expansion — more than two billion dollars during the next 10 years, or approximately as much as the Bell system had to obtain in the last 25 years.

The system's stockholders now number more than 680,000 who have invested about two-thirds of the money needed for the company's growth to a four-billion-dollar corporation; the other one-third is borrowed money.

During the 25 years of its growth, the average daily number of telephone conversations has soared from 33 million to more than 85 million and the number of telephones has tripled. Service is furnished at relatively less cost than at any time in telephone history. Average station-to-station day rate between the nation's 25 largest cities is down from about $6 to less than $1.75. The transcontinental day rate has been cut from $16.5 0to $2.50. Overseas rates have been cut sharply since the service opened in 1927. In the 170 largest cities served by the Bell system the average number of telephones the customer can reach by a local call has increased from 30,000 in 1920 to more than 80,000.

Moscow Boost for UNO

By Walter Lippmann

IT IS now quite clear that on the subject of the Big Three there was a misunderstanding at President Truman's conference of Nov. 29.

It could not have been the considered view of the government to "hope," as the New York Times interpreted Mr. Truman's remarks, that the United Nations Organization would "be able to take over within the next 90 days all the problems hitherto worked out at meetings of the Big Three," for within the next 10 days another meeting of the Big Three was convoked.

It is reasonable to suppose that Mr. Truman must have been thinking about a face to face meeting of the three big men and not about meetings of the three big governments.

Here and abroad there are many who think that a meeting of the Big Three is inconsistent with the spirit of the United Nations Organization. Surely that depends on what is done at the meeting.

The Big Three, who are responsible for creating the UNO may be so foolish or so wicked as to wish now to destroy it, but it is just as possible and much more likely, that they must settle certain questions, which they alone can settle, in order that the UNO may be able to get off to a good start.

Atom At Issue

This is, it seems to me, quite evidently the case if the UNO is to handle successfully the first great problem which comes before it—the problem of regulating atomic energy.

The Truman-Attlee-King declaration to the world will have to be followed up by a concrete plan submitted to the UNO if, as was done at Dumbarton Oaks before San Francisco, this plan is drafted in agreement with the Soviet government and sponsored by it as well as by the three so-called "atomic powers." Is there any doubt that the chances of success will be definitely greater?

The immediate danger of the atomic bomb is that it will precipitate a race of armaments between the United States and the Soviet Union. If, when he is in Moscow, Secretary Byrnes can persuade Commissar Molotov to join him in working out a common plan for regulating atomic bombs, that in itself will do more than anything else could possibly do to make it reasonably certain that the plan finally adopted by the UNO will work.

It is not contrary to the spirit of an international organization that Byrnes should seek a preliminary agreement with Foreign Minister Bevin and Molotov. He will be doing only what Senator Connally and Senator Vandenberg did when they found ways of agreeing on the UNO charter before it was submitted to the senate.

Necessary Move

The Connally-Vandenberg agreement was not "undemocratic." It did not impair the prerogatives of the senate. It was the one thing that had to be done in order to save the charter from being destroyed by a partisan conflict.

A Byrnes-Molotov-Bevin agreement on a plan to regulate atomic energy is the thing that is most certain to protect the UNO from being split wide open by an international conflict.

There are many other questions which the Big Three ought, to settle if the business of pacification and peace-making is to go forward. There ought to be a settlement of the dispute about the control of Japan. There ought to be an agreement to recognize the justice and the importance of settling with France on the status of the Ruhr, the Rhineland, and the Saar. There ought to be an agreement about how treaties of peace are to be drafted for ratification by an eventual peace conference.

There is no doubt that if the Moscow meeting produces agreement on atomic energy, Japan, western Germany, and the procedure of peace-making, it will be a huge success. If it produces only an agreement on a common policy for dealing with atomic energy, even if it is no more than an agreement to work out a common policy, the Big Three will make it much easier to agree subsequently on the questions they are not yet able to settle.

Support Needed

Surely the three foreign ministers are entitled to the support and good will of all of us. The burden of making peace after so terrible a war is a heavy one for any man to bear. We must not, in the guise of free criticism, make it heavier by arraigning these men at the bar of public opinion and treating them as suspects presumed to have sinister purposes until they prove their innocence.

Almost every day in congress someone makes a speech about the conduct of foreign affairs in which our own public servants are given, not the benefit of every reasonable doubt, but are subjected to the injury of every unreasonable suspicion.

Everyone must, of course, have his say about anything he wants to talk about. But when one thinks of the time and nervous energy that Gen. Marshall has had to expend at the Pearl Harbor investigation before he could start off on one of the most difficult diplomatic missions an American has ever undertaken—of what energy Secretary Byrnes had to devote to ex-Ambassador Hurley at a time when he should have been devoting his whole thought to the Moscow meeting—one wonders whether we shall not have to breed a race of supermen to endure the strain of American life.

Blames Home Front

By The Associated Press

WITH THE 32ND DIVISION, JAPAN—The turning point in the Pacific war was the defeat of the Japanese navy at Midway and the army's defeat at Guadalcanal, Rear Adm. Masao Aoki told 32nd division interrogators.

Aoki, a veteran of 34 years service in the Japanese navy, said the underlying reason for his country's defeat was the failure of Japanese industry to meet the needs of war, and that this in part was due to the drafting of skilled workers by the army.

The address of the man who said he was the fellow to see when it came time to think about getting a Christmas turkey was written on the back of the same card that had the name of the man who said he was the one to see when it came time to think about having the family all cleaned and polished.

The card was filed away in the special pocket in the pocketbook where that jingle about the soldiers and sailors was placed for safe-keeping and also for getting out and showing to people at parties when conversation lagged. The jingle was in the same place as the draft of a letter telling Readers Digest how it could improve its reading content at no extra cost.

The letter also had written on it some information about a combination lock on a granary, the name of an obscure hotel in an obscure town in case someone had the hard luck to have to spend a night there and the overseas address of a second lieutenant. Here is the whole collection except the address of the man with the turkey and the name of the man to see about cleaning the car. They are missing.

But there are a couple of jokes clipped out of magazines, three prescriptions written by three doctors and never filled, four receipts for payment for services rendered, a pencil sketch showing how to get to Chestnut road, two membership cards for defunct organizations and a couple more for organizations that soon will be, including Gen. Hershey's club.

Also a slip of paper with something about basic mileage ration, an account number for the Social Security Act, a bill of sale, a certificate of registration for the automobile, another for the driver, five two-cent stamps permanently stuck together, civilian defense and Red Cross credentials, three more clippings of jokes, a dog-eared snapshot of a baby that doesn't get any better looking as the years go by, a prediction that the war will end July [illegible], 1947, a fishing license, two receipts for insurance, a clipping of a newspaper headline predicting the end of the war in Europe, a form for a War Bond, the recipe for a mixed drink known as a whoozy, a sketch showing how a wing could be added to the house, a pair of ticket stubs to a football game, three one-dollar bills, [illegible] remnants of what may have been ration stamps which could have been confetti, a clipping of Benito Mussolini hanging by the heels and another of a column by Dorothy Thompson with her neck sticking out a good country mile.

It certainly beats all the amount of junk women carry in their pocketbooks. If they had all that space to work with, they could load it up.

WILL THERE BE A STEEL STRIKE?

Not if the CIO abides by its pledged word, given only last spring.

Question: What would be the general effect on the country of a steel strike?

Answer: Over 40 per cent of all the factory workers in the country earn their living by making steel into useful products for American life. A shut-down of the steel industry would be a disastrous blow to reconversion and would cause a serious loss in both wages and industrial production at a time when they were most needed.

Question: Is it true that the Steelworkers Union has pledged itself not to strike?

Answer: Yes. Every contract which the Union has signed this year with the various steel companies has a clause wherein the Union agrees not to strike during the life of the contract.

Question: Are those contracts still in effect?

Answer: Yes. They were signed in the spring of 1945 to run until October, 1946.

Question: Who signed for the Union?

Answer: Its international officials — Philip Murray, Van Bittner, Clinton Golden and others — and the local Union heads at the various plants.

Question: Is there no "escape clause" by which either side could end the agreements?

Answer: No. The Union demanded a fixed, long-term contract and got it.

Question: Why did they want a long-term contract?

Answer: In the Union's own words before the War Labor Board, "The Union's request for a termination date of October, 1946, is not made capriciously or pressed here for bargaining purposes. It represents the considered view of the Union that only such a term will adequately serve the needs of stability."

Question: Did the recent strike vote violate the contracts?

Answer: No. Only an actual strike would violate them.

Question: Haven't there been strikes already during the life of the contracts?

Answer: Yes. There were 998 strikes in steel plants during the past year alone. They were mostly local strikes which the Union characterizes as "wildcat," but they meant a big loss in production.

Question: Does the end of the war justify changing the contracts?

Answer: No. The bond was sealed on both sides and should be kept whether times be good or bad. The steel companies are continuing to live up to these agreements. If a strike is called, it will be in clear violation of the existing contracts.

* * *

A strike in the face of existing contracts would shatter any confidence in the validity of union agreements in the steel industry.

Mission in Manchuria Rated "Chinese Puzzle" by Marines

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

CHINHSIEN Manchuria—Manchuria illustrates forcibly how a nation can win a war and still be far from winning peace

This great, rich northern crown of China after 14 years of puppet subservience to Japan is slowly being reannexed to the Central Chinese government by Chiang Kai-shek's armies but the Japanese economic hold on it has not been speedily broken

Hal Boyle

Visualizing the time when they might have to sweep through Manchuria to attack Siberia, the Japanese rapidly industrialized the province and it now has more miles of railroad lines than perhaps all the rest of China put together It also has extensive cotton spinning mills, substantial coal and iron deposits and some good oil shale.

Most of this economic development was organized and carried out by highly trained Japanese technicians They are still here and the Chinese must depend on them and lean on the skill Nothing otherwise the plants would be idle China has no such body of industrial technicians

Will Still Dominate

Many foreign observers and educated Chinese believe reliance on Japanese technicians will inevitably enable the Japanese to retain their present dominant position in Manchuria for a while

To keep China out of Manchuria has been, of course, the keystone of Japanese foreign policy It was the best hope of compensated prosperity for hundreds of thousands of Japanese civilians whose knowledge of production techniques makes them virtually indispensable to the Chinese government

A similar situation also exists in North China where Chiang Kai-shek's armies face the greatest possibility of extensive civil warfare with strong Chinese Communist forces

Here both the Japanese army troops as well as civilian industrial technicians are being employed by the Nationalists to prop their control Here also in Tsingtao, Tientsin and Peiping 50,000 American Marines and thousands of Chinese puppet troops who once fought under the banner of Japan are actively supporting the Chinese Nationalist government by guarding rail lines against Communist sabotage

Along one railway stretching from Port Chinwangtao to the interior, where there are British and Chinese owned coal mines from which fuel is shipped to heat Shanghai, Peiping and Hongkong, there are four kinds of guards—American Marines, Japanese soldiers, Chinese puppet and Chinese Nationalist troops

This situation is extremely puzzling to the Marines, who were told their job was to disarm the Japanese.
